Not illustrated. 1820 Excerpt: .land, and observe the union now subsisting between Monarch and people in the importance of the truths they contain, to the happiness of both, without being forcibly struck with the moral change which has taken place, and finding, in every step of our investigation, fresh matter for gratitude and praise. Within the three first years from the formation of this Society, the Central Committee at Berlin had distributed more than 21,000 copies of the Scriptures; and, in the third year alone, nearly 11,000 copies had been circulated by the Filial Societies. These Filial Societies, already very numerous, and comprehending some of the finest cities and provinces of the kingdom, were con-1817--16tinually increasing in number and activity; and the result of their exertions was declared to be such, at the close of the third year, as to open most pleasing prospects for future times. In furnishing assistance to this Institution and its dependencies, every satisfaction was felt which could be derived from the application of bounty to those who were in need of it, and who appeared seriously disposed to turn it to the most profitable account. The sentiments of the Directors, as expressed through their President, Major-General Von Diericke, were such as to inspire and encourage the greatest confidence. Commending most highly the endeavours of the British and Foreign Bible Society to diffuse the word of God, properly translated into foreign languages, as much as possible, among all nations of the earth; they unitedly declare, that...
