SARCOPHAGA OF FRANCE (DIPTERA: SARCOPHAIDAE) (HARDBACK)

Pensoft Publishers, Bulgaria, 2011. Hardback. Book Condition: New. 235 x 165 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Pandelle (1896) provided the first comprehensive account of the French species of Sarcophaga. Although he was the first to fully understand the diagnostic value of the male terminalia and to apply this in his work, Pandelle did not provide a single illustration. The next major contribution was by Seguy (1941), who illustrated all species and gave an outline of their distribution. As relatively little collecting had been done at the time, there were few locality records. Richet (1991) increased our knowledge of the distribution when he published maps showing departmental records for each species based mainly on his own collection and material in the MNHN. The distribution maps in the present paper (Plates 123 - 130) are the result of further collecting and they are based entirely on material, including museum specimens, examined and identified by the authors. A complete list of collecting records is also given. Until now identification has depended largely on the works of Rohdendorf (1937), Seguy (1941), Mihalyi (1979), Pape (1987) and Povolny and Verves (1997). Gobert's catalogue (1887) and Pandelle's work (1896) give us an idea of the French species known at the time but are not very useful for species identification. Rohdendorf (1937) built on the works of particularly Bottcher (1912a,b,c; 1913a,b), which clearly proved the crucial importance of the male terminalia in identification, and provided illustrations and keys for nearly every Palearctic species then known. Seguy (1941) gave figures of the male terminalia but did not use the characters of the phallus in his keys or descriptions. There have been considerable changes in both taxonomy and nomenclature since Seguy's (1941) work, many new species have been described and the detailed structure of...
