ALFRED HITCHCOCK IN HIS OWN WORDS

BBC Audio, A Division Of Random House, United Kingdom, 2013. CD-Audio. Book Condition: New. Unabridged. 140 x 124 mm. Language: English . Brand New. In interviews ranging from 1955 to 1980, Alfred Hitchcock talks about the time he was locked in a police cell when he was a child and being typecast as a director of thrillers. He also discusses his early films; the advent of talkies ; planning Psycho ; American audiences; cinema techniques; horror films, and the influence of real crimes. He considers the difference between making films in America and Britain; the importance of lighting; his female leads, and being a practical joker. As well as critics, he also touches on avoiding cliches; murder in film; film editing and music; The Birds ; the star factor in actors, and making comedies. Please note that, due to the age and nature of this archive material, the sound quality may vary. AudioGO s In Their Own Words series features interviews with some of the key figures from the fields of entertainment, sport, politics and literature - many of which haven t been heard since their original transmission. This is a unique window into the past and is a chance for us to hear those who contributed to the richness of our cultural heritage. With access to the entire archive of BBC Radio and television, we can now witness some of the most lively, entertaining and informative encounters in BBC broadcasting.
