Porter, of the Kendall School--is from his report of December, 1892.--J. H. the taking of the multitude of fishes, the healing of the man with a withered arm, the Sermon on the Mount, the leper, the healing of the centurion s servant, the stilling of the tempest, the story of Jairus s daughter, the choice and sending out of the Apostles, the miracle of the loaves and fishes, the ascension of Christ, the descent of the Holy Ghost, and the account of the passion of Jesus. Short reading-lessons formed the principal ground-work for language-teaching, the object kept steadily in view being a ready use and comprehension of everyday, idiomatic German. The sentences and lessons used were simple and short. In her speech the consonants s, st, f, etc., gave considerable trouble, and when not reminded of them by the teacher she was quite apt to let them slip entirely out of her speech. Other errors also crept in. For instance, she is quite likely, when left to herself, to say nictes instead of nictis. On the whole, however, her success in speech is most gratifying, and her improvement greatly surprises those who heard her first imperfect articulation some years ago. She is herself most eager to talk, for she wishes very much...
